TERMS OF ENDEARMENT

When it came to constructing her flagship Brentwood boutique, fashion maven Katharine Kidd enlisted the expertise of interior designer Christine Markatos. Kidd's distinct style takes form in white oak floors, a glitzy tin ceiling and a Venetian glass chandelier that playfully dances against pearlescent beaded wallcovering—the perfect accents for her romantic clothing collections. katharinekidd.com; markatosdesign.com

BARE NECESSITIES

The Bare Collection has been capturing our hearts with classic, timeless silhouettes for almost a decade. Drawing from her eclectic heritage, Bare artist Jeet Kaur Rodriguez Sohal imparts into the brand her vision of simple yet striking jewelry designs. Her eye has proved to be on point, as the collection is in high demand with some of Hollywood's most elite ladies. We all know the jewelry is stunning, but don't forget the Bare Bags...they are a must! barecollection.com

NATURE'S BEST

Dandelion Ranch is planting roots in Culver City with a satellite outpost at the prestigious H.D. Buttercup. The widely praised floral boutique is best known for its fluid arrangements that mimic the flowers' natural habitation, maintaining their integrity and giving off a true garden-like appearance. Principal designer Clover Chadwick has transformed this budding labor of love into a blooming business that continues to intrigue patrons with each and every freshly cut bouquet. dandelionranch.com

WHETHER RELAXING IN A DESIGNER SUITE AT THE PENINSULA BEVERLY HILLS OR BEING REINTRODUCED TO A FAVORITE NOSTALGIC SWEET AT LA JOLLA'S CHIC BARDOT ICE CREAM SHOP, EVERY MOMENT WILL HAVE YOU FALLING FOR SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA.

KISS AND TELL

Be prepared to make a creative statement when indulging at La Jolla's überchic Bardot—a captivating dessert concept that reshapes the age-old ice cream bar into a modern work of art. Designed by architect Ana Henton, the 750-square-foot shop exhibits a minimalistic appeal with a simple yet bold color palette that highlights the artisanal ingredients of each handmade sweet treat. Try the Classic collection...delish! bardotbars.com

DESIGNER DIGS

Tucked away amidst lush gardens, the iconic Peninsula Beverly Hills hotel emits an intimate estate feel with a sophisticated presence that lends itself perfectly to exciting collaborations. Case in point: a recently transformed 1,500-square-foot, garden-facing suite, crafted by interior designer Nancy Corzine and fashioned with her signature furnishings, textiles and lighting. Corzine's restful palette of ice blue, white and Venetian silver will have you feeling right at home. peninsula.com

PHOTO OP

Digital photography is all dressed up and ready to go thanks to mixed-media artist Gwen Samuels. Drawing from her background in textile design, Samuels' compelling installation, Dress Code, is comprised of digital photos printed on plastic transparency and then stitched together to create multidimensional compositions. Visit the Lois Lambert Gallery in Santa Monica for a closer look at these frocks debuting through mid-November. gwensamuels.com; loislambertgallery.com

FOODIE PHENOM

Consider your food woes solved by the pros at Malibu Farm, an innovative hot spot offering a wide variety of unique cooking classes and specialty dinners. Owner and chef Helene Henderson designed the Farm with a Swedish smorgasbord in mind and it comes as no surprise that, with most of the ingredients found and grown on the property, the delicious eats are fresh, organic and extremely local. Hurry and reserve your seats soon—spots here fill up fast! malibu-farm.com

ISLAND HOP

I've actually never been to Catalina Island and it's just straight across the water from us. I have always thought how wonderful it would be to pack a picnic lunch, take a boat out of Dana Point or Newport Beach, and head over for an afternoon jaunt. It seems I may get an opportunity sooner than I think, as my daughter Dean's 6th grade class gears up for a trip there this fall. I am so excited to finally get a chance to explore the island. catalinachamber.com

CULINARY COOL

When searching for an indulgent night out, my crew heads to Three Seventy Common in Laguna Beach. Ryan Adams, the owner and chef, is amazing—he's all about real down-home food, and sharing the experience with family and friends. Snagging a large Euro-inspired table for a delicious family-style Sunday dinner is something I look forward to every week; especially on its acclaimed fried chicken night, which always leaves me saying, "I'll never need to learn this dish!" Theirs is just that good! 370common.com

GLOBAL INFLUENCE

Every fall, I set out on a quest for new and interesting sweaters, denim and cords—all of those rich sumptuous fabrics that just scream cozy. New shoes and bags are also a must, as I derive an ample amount of inspiration from them for my future collections. This upcoming line feels like a lot of greens with a mixture of animal prints and dots, and aqua, pink and sand tones. Next year's prints look textured, rich and super comfy—think hotel wear and entertaining at home. kerrycassill.com

SURF'S UP

The Surf & Sand Resort in Laguna Beach is the perfect place for a quick getaway. Conveniently located off South Coast Highway, it's so easy to adventure on foot. Each room features a balcony, with views of the gorgeous grounds and ocean beyond, where all you can hear is the crashing of the surf. The pool and spa are also a must-visit. After one of your treatments, head out to 15FiftyFive and enjoy a cocktail by the fire pit. surfandsandresort.com
